Dear "XXXXXX"

Re: Ownership of "XXXXXX created by xxx xxxx

This letter serves to confirm that Imperial College, London ("College"), in accordance with its Intellectual Property ("IP") Policy on student-generated IP, accepts that none of the policy exceptions apply to the IP generated by you during the course of your studies with the College, and, therefore, the College will advance no claim to ownership of the above-mentioned IP entitled "xxxx".

However, as a result of the goodwill associated in your engagement with the College through which your IP was conceived and developed, you agree to grant to the College a royalty-free licence in perpetuity entitling College to use the IP for the purposes of the progression of research and the dissemination of research results in accordance with academic custom and practice.

For the avoidance of doubt, this letter provides no assurances on your freedom to operate (i.e. determining whether the actions of piloting or commercializing the IP can be done without infringing valid IP rights of others) and in this regard, no searches have been conducted on third party rights other than a potential ownership claim by the College.

This letter is based on the information you have provided College to date. Should any information be found to be inaccurate or false this letter is null and void.

Yours sincerely,

For and on behalf of Imperial College of Science, Technology and Medicine
